City of Shawnee

HISTORY

OLD SHAWNEE TOWN
SHAWNEE MAYORS
SISTER CITIES
TOWNS OF YESTERYEAR

Shawnee derives its name from the Shawnee Indians. When the Shawnee first settled in this area, they lived in tepees, later building log cabins, and eventually wood frame houses. Here they found an abundance of timber and free-flowing springs with gum trees lining the creeks, so they called their settlement Gum Springs.

In an 1825 treaty with the Indians, the U.S. government gave the Shawnee Indians 1,600,000 acres of land in eastern Kansas, including all of Johnson County, in exchange for their lands in Missouri. By 1854, a new treaty was negotiated, with the Indians selling back to the United States all of the land with the exception of 200,000 acres reserved for their homes, amounting to 200 acres for each member of the tribe. In 1854 the Kansas Territory was opened for settlement. The newly repossessed territory was sold by the government to the incoming home-seekers. Shawneetown (later shortened to Shawnee) was platted soon after in 1856.

One of the State's earliest towns, Shawnee was also the site of the first territorial legislature, and home to the first territorial governor. Located at the intersection of early military and territorial roads leading to the Santa Fe Trail, Shawnee also became the first county seat of Johnson County. In 1862, Shawnee found itself in the middle of Civil War border struggles. The town was virtually destroyed, when it was burned and looted by southern guerillas led by William Quantrill just months before his infamous raid on Lawrence. After the County offices moved to Olathe in 1866, Shawnee became a small farm market center. During the 1950's, the population began to grow as people began moving away from congested urban areas to the smaller outlying towns. People quickly discovered the merits of the City and the population has continued to grow ever since, more than tripling in the last three decades.

NEW TO TOWN | QUALITY OF LIFE

Shawnee is served by two public school districts and several private schools. The eastern 1/2 of the City is in the Shawnee Mission School District (USD 512) and the western 1/2 is served by the DeSoto School District (USD 232). Although 30 acres of industrially zoned land in southwest Shawnee are in the Olathe School District (USD 233), there are no Shawnee students in that district.

The DeSoto School District covers 100 square miles and includes the city of DeSoto and parts of Shawnee, Lenexa, Bonner Springs, and Olathe. More than 85% of the district's students pursue post-secondary education and more than 60% of the teaching staff have earned or are currently pursuing Masters or other advanced degrees.

Johnson County Community College [johnco.cc.ks.us] is just four miles from Shawnee. The University of Kansas [ukans.edu] at Lawrence is 26 miles away. Kansas law requires that freshmen admitted into Kansas Regents universities, including the University of Kansas and Kansas State University [ksu.edu], have either a 21 on the ACT, standing in the top third of the class, or a 2.0 grade point average. Kansas State Department of Education [ksde.org]. For further information about school enrollment, fees, scholastic programs, or activities, contact the district or school offices.
